AEOLIAN QUINTET

Woodwinds

Aeolian: "borne to the winds". Founded in 1989, this highly acclaimed Canadian quintet has delighted audiences on its many extensive cross-Canada tours. The members of the quintet - arguably Canada's leading wind chamber ensemble - are based in London, Ont. where they contribute to every facet of Southern Ontario's active musical life, including regular collaborations with the Iseler Singers, the Penderecki String Quartet and such well known Canadian pianists as Michael Kim and Ronald Turini.

Friday, Mar. 7, 1997

CANADIAN GUITAR TRIO

Prepare for a new Canadian musical experience! To match the international reputation of such ensembles as the San Francisco and Amsterdam guitar trios, Canada now has its own Vancouver-based trio of guitarists. Harold Micay, Han Nguyen and David Yeung blend virtuosity and expressiveness in a rich repertoire ranging from Vivaldi and Haydn to de Falls and Villa Lobos.

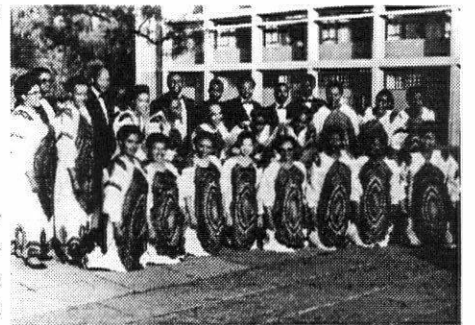

Friday, May 2, 1997

SOWETO SINGS

South African Choir

25 voices, conducted by Jabulani Mazibuko

From the new South Africa comes a choir of major international significance offering songs in English, Afrikaans, Zulu and Xhosa. With rhythmic intensity born of years of apartheid the choir brings new meaning to the emerging freedoms of their land. Members of the Soweto Sings choir are all teachers in the public school system of Soweto township.
