The final concert of the season features a favourite of White Rock Concerts, Vancouver's Chor Leoni. The mens choir is known world over for their eclectic and adventurous programming, engaging stage presence and warm sound. The choir returns to White Rock bringing the best of their repertoire including works by Whitacre, Lang, and Esenvalds. Add to this, rollicking folk song and popular tunes and you will see why this choir is one of the most popular choirs in North America.

This is no April Fools joke! White Rock Concerts finally celebrates Beethoven's 250th, even if it is 2 years later! A stellar performance of the famous Septet about which Beethoven wrote: "I wish they would burn the piece... nobody is listening to anything else I have written!" will feature an all-star Vancouver ensemble headed by violinist Nancy DiNovo and clarinetist José Franch-Ballester. The group will also present some rarely heard works: Beethoven's Wind Quintet in E flat major, WoO 208 as well as the Sextet in E flat major, Op. 81b.
